AL-KO and Sawiko: top rankings for quality and innovation in the readers' poll for Best Brand

AL-KO and Sawiko cleaned up at this year's readers' poll from German renowned trade magazines promobil and Caravaning.

AL-KO secured first place in several categories: in chassis technology for motorhomes and in levelling systems. AL-KO was also top of the podium for caravan maneuvering systems. Sawiko can once again celebrate a strong third place in the rear carrier systems category.

The readers' poll, in which several thousand camping enthusiasts voted as ever, clearly shows which brands and products are particularly popular in the leisure vehicle market and which companies are considered especially trustworthy. AL-KO, for example, has already been honored more than a dozen times as the best brand in the motorhome chassis technology category.

Harald Hiller, President & CEO of AL-KO, is delighted with the recognition: "It is always a great motivation to see our products' quality rated so highly by our customers. We thank them for their trust and will continue to do everything we can to offer them the best in terms of comfort and safety."
