AL-KO impresses at the European Innovation Awards

AL-KO has received the European Innovation Award for the AL-KO PROSAFE wheel clamp for caravans in the safety category.

AL-KO PROSAFE offers professional safety through the intelligent use of highly resistant materials, built-in scratch and contact protection for the rims, all with a user-friendly, simple installation in the shortest possible time, plus it provides a visual deterrent with its warning colors.

The European Innovation Awards recognize most innovative products and ideas in the caravanning industry. They are organized by DoldeMedien Verlag, the publisher of renowned trade magazines such as Reisemobil International and Camping, Cars & Caravans. A jury made up of the editors-in-chief of 17 trade magazines from 15 European countries judge the entries submitted in various categories. The aim is to promote innovations in areas such as safety, comfort, and sustainability and thus shape the future of caravanning.

AL-KO Vehicle Technology Group has won several European Innovation Awards in recent years. Most recently, the company received the award for the user-friendly TRIGO-VAN bicycle carrier for panel vans.

Harald Hiller, President & CEO of AL-KO, says, "We are very proud to have impressed this high-caliber jury of experts once again. I would like to thank our development and marketing teams for their hard work."
